Poems from the Fields of Dharma Thomas Reidy

Poems from the Fields of Dharma, like most mystical poetry, both articulates and evokes profound transformation. Thomas Reidy began writing these poems in 1975 to chronicle changes he experienced while struggling to understand his life circumstances. When he was eight, he lost his father to suicide, leaving him without a sense of purpose. In his early thirties, he realized that his mission in life was to search beneath his disturbing thoughts and feelings to find his true self. He adopted as navigational guides the dharmic imperatives of ancient Indian philosophy describing the inherent qualities of soul. These verses emerged amidst the poet's attempt to reconcile his outer life with his newly discovered inner path. Read chronologically, they illuminate both his spiritual awakening and his passionate physical surrender to abiding love. While the book came about over a span of forty years, the shifts that its pages ignite in the reader, enriched by Noël Hudson's compelling art, can be immediate.
